

September 15, 1952.

Frank D. Schroth, Publisher,
The Brooklyn Eagle,
24 Johnson Street,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

My dear Frank:

I have your letter of September 12th. Of course, you are free to use my June 17th letter in any way. You will be interested in a story by Tom Meany which will appear in the September 26th issue of Colliers. They have a two page color spread of a drawing of the type of stadium that Norman Bel Geddes and Emil H. Praeger might recommend. This stadium would be the largest covered convention hall in the world. I can think of nothing that would bring more business to Brooklyn than this proposed six million dollar improvement. The events that would be held in it would be widely publicized ones of necessity. Brooklyn date lines would appear almost daily throughout the world. We would become so important in Brooklyn that once again we would long to be a separate city with an individual identity.

Sincerely,

Walter F. O'Malley,
President.

WFO:M:EM

C
O
P
Y

